SCHEDULE G

Capital Gains and Losses

> Read the information on page 5 carefully before completing this schedule.

NOTE
If you need more space, attach a sheet with the required information and carry the result of your calculations for each class of property to the corresponding line of this schedule.

How to complete this schedule

Situation	Parts to complete
You disposed of (or are deemed to have disposed of) personal-use property in 2025 and you want to designate it as your principal residence to benefit from a full or partial capital gains exemption.	Part A
You disposed of (sold, transferred, exchanged, gave, etc.) capital property not mentioned elsewhere in this table in 2025 or you are required to report a capital gain resulting from a reserve claimed in 2024.	Parts B and F
You disposed of resource property in 2025.	Parts C and F
You disposed of qualified farm or fishing property or qualified small business corporation shares in 2025 or you are required to report a capital gain resulting from a reserve claimed in 2024.	Parts D and F
You disposed of shares as part of a qualifying business transfer or qualifying cooperative conversion in 2025 or you are required to report a capital gain resulting from a reserve claimed in 2024.	Parts E and F

IMPORTANT
If you sustained a capital loss, put a minus sign (−) in front of it.

A Principal residence

Complete this part if you disposed of (or are deemed to have disposed of) personal-use property during the year and you want to designate it as your principal residence to benefit from a full or partial capital gains exemption.

NOTE
You can dispose of property voluntarily (sale, transfer, exchange, donation, etc.) or involuntarily (expropriation, etc.). Deemed dispositions can also take place in certain situations (death, change in use, damage, emigration, etc.).

Designation as a principal residence

Check this box if you designated the property as a principal residence in form TP-274-V, Designation of Property as a Principal Residence, to the exclusion of all other property, for the years mentioned in the form during which you owned the property. 109 ☐

Information

Capital gains

If your gains are greater than your losses, part of the excess constitutes a taxable capital gain. Enter the taxable capital gain on line 108.

Net capital losses

If your losses are greater than your gains, part of the excess constitutes a net capital loss, which you can use to reduce your taxable capital gains for the three previous years or future years. Make sure to include this schedule with your return so we can update your file.

To reduce your taxable capital gains for previous years, complete form TP-1012.A-V, Carry-Back of a Loss, and file it separately from your return.

Capital gains deduction

Under certain conditions, you may be entitled to a capital gains deduction (line 292 of your return) if you realized a capital gain on the disposition of the following:

- certain resource property disposed of before March 26, 2025 (exceptions apply);
- qualified farm or fishing property;
- qualified small business corporation shares (including shares disposed of as part of an intergenerational business transfer).

Capital gains deduction for a qualifying business transfer or qualifying cooperative conversion

You may be eligible for a capital gains deduction for a qualifying business transfer or qualifying cooperative conversion (line 291 of your return) if you realized a capital gain on the disposition of shares to an employee ownership trust or a worker cooperative. The maximum deduction is $10 million.

Cryptoassets

To calculate your capital gains (or losses) from cryptoassets, complete a Cryptoasset Return (form TP-21.4.39-V) and file it with your income tax return. Failure to do so could lead to penalties.

Deemed disposition

You must report all capital gains resulting from a deemed disposition. By law, you are deemed to have disposed of capital property when certain situations occur, such as:

- the total loss of property due to damage or theft (for more information, see guide IN-125-V, The Tax Effects of Financial Assistance Received as a Result of a Disaster);
- a change in use of property (for example, the conversion of your principal residence into income-generating property or vice versa) (for more information, see guide IN-120-V, Capital Gains and Losses);
- leaving Canada (for more information, go to revenuquebec.ca);
- a death (for more information, see guide IN-117-V, Guide to Filing the Income Tax Return of a Deceased Person).

Disposition of precious or personal-use property

(lines 16, 18 and 19)

If you realized a capital gain on the disposition of precious property (jewellery, coins, paintings, stamps, etc.) or personal-use property (automobile, cottage, boat, furniture, etc.), you do not have to report it if the proceeds of disposition are $1,000 or less. Otherwise, the adjusted cost base is either $1,000 or the actual adjusted cost base, whichever is greater.

Special rules apply if you sustained a loss on the disposition of precious property or personal-use property.

For more information, see guide IN-120-V.

Disposition of a principal residence

(box 109 in Part A)

If you realized a capital gain on the disposition of your principal residence, complete form TP-274-V, Designation of Property as a Principal Residence, and check box 109 in Part A to avoid having all or part of the gain considered a taxable capital gain.

Property flipping (house or rental property)

If you disposed of residential property (including rental property or a right to purchase) that you owned for less than 365 consecutive days and no life event justified the disposition, we consider that you flipped the property. The profit on the sale is therefore fully taxable as business income and must be entered on lines 12 and 22 of Schedule L.

For more information, go to our website.

Reserve for capital gains

If you disposed of capital property and part of the proceeds of disposition can be paid after the end of the year, you can generally deduct a reserve for the gain resulting from the disposition.

> IMPORTANT
> If you deduct a reserve in 2025, you must include it in your income for 2026. However, you may be able to deduct another reserve.

For more information, see guide IN-120-V.

Deferral of capital gains realized on the disposition of small business corporation shares

(line 94)

If you realized a capital gain on the disposition of small business corporation shares (private corporation shares) and acquired new shares issued by another small business corporation, you can, under certain conditions, defer taxation of all or part of the gain until the new shares are disposed of.
