

Tax Credit for Childcare Expenses

If you and your spouse on December 31, 2025, are both entering an amount on line 455 of your respective returns, you must each file your own Schedule C.

To qualify for the tax credit, the childcare expenses paid must have been incurred while you or your spouse on December 31, 2025, was in any of the situations listed below.

Check the applicable box or boxes. You or your spouse was:

- carrying out the duties of an office or employment ☐
- carrying on a business alone or as a partner actively engaged in the business ☐
- practising a profession ☐
- carrying out research under a grant ☐
- actively seeking employment ☐
- attending a secondary school or taking a course remotely or in person at a qualified educational institution on a full-time basis (see line 455 in the guide) ☐
- attending a secondary school or taking a course remotely or in person at a qualified educational institution on a part-time basis (see line 455 in the guide) ☐
- receiving benefits under the Québec parental insurance plan (QPIP) or benefits related to a birth or adoption under the Employment Insurance plan ☐

Eligible child

A child under 16 at some point in the year or a child of any age with a mental or physical infirmity who was your or your spouse's dependant.

An eligible child can be:

- your or your spouse's child; or
- a child who was your or your spouse's dependant and whose income for the year was not more than $13,658 (the child's income is the amount on line 275 of their income tax return or the amount that would have been entered on line 275 had the child filed a return).
